Administrative Review of NHMRC Program Grants

As outlined in the current NHMRC Program Grant Funding Policy, the NHMRC’s Scientific Expert Panel (SEP) may instigate an Administrative Review of any Program where a CI intends leaving the Program or intends changing their institution or employment from that detailed in the original Program application or approved previously through Administrative Review. NHMRC is to be notified, in advance, and the Administrative Review should be initiated as a variation by the CIA and submitted through RGMS via the Program’s Administering Institution’s Research Administrative Officer. The following procedure occurs when an Administrative Review is triggered:

a. The SEP will determine if the Program is still viable, assessing the information provided in the Administrative Review submission document;

b. If a CI is not departing and the Program is considered to still be viable, the budget will be retained;

c. If a CI is departing and the Program is considered to still be viable, the team will be given the opportunity to put forward a replacement CI. Where there is a gap between the departure date and the replacement date, the budget will be adjusted to provide pro-rata funding;

d. If the replacement CI is assessed as warranting a quantum and the CI is seen as being integrated into the Program then the budget will be retained;

e. If the team does not put forward a replacement CI, the grant will be reduced from the date of the CI departure according to the ratio:

\text{Departing CIs per cent time on the Program divided by the total per cent time of all CIs on Program in original application or at the time of the review;}

f. If the Program is not considered viable, the grant will be terminated immediately following one year of bridging funding, which may include a reduction in funding caused by the departure of the CI.

The process of an Administrative Review may also include a site visit or a full interview with the SEP as well as budget reduction and/or bridging funding/termination of the grant.

This document contains the information to be provided for the Administrative Review submission to be completed and submitted as a variation request through RGMS via the Research Administrative Officer of the Administering Institution for the Program.
